Simon says . . . . .

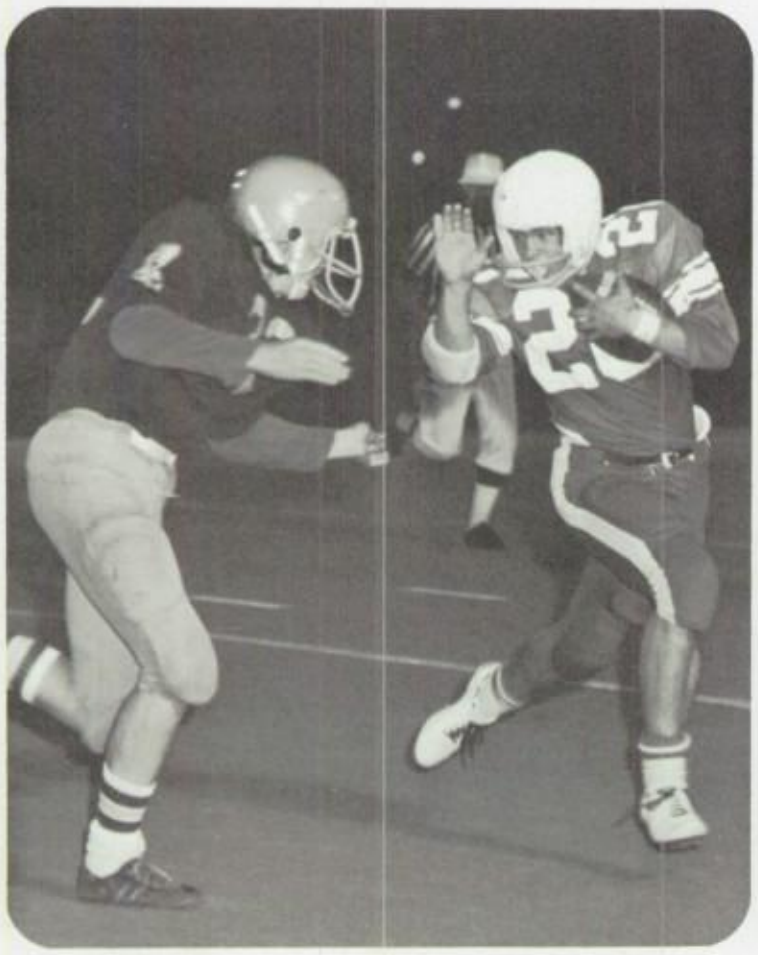
Buy cheap, get cheap

What do you mean bald eagle?

Unhand me you beast!

Feeding time at the zoo.

Does he or doesn't he? Only his hairdresser knows.



Slap me five!

Dedicated to Brother John Shanahan

A great American leader once said, "I HAVE A DREAM." It is with a strong sense of gratitude that the 1975 Plainsman Staff breaks a six year tradition and dedicates this book to another man whose dream has influenced the members of the Marist High School Community. It was in August of 1964 that Br. John Shanahan arrived in Chicago to take up his apostolate as an educator at this growing, young school. In the years which followed Br. John's dream grew and so did the number of hats he was called upon to wear. As a coach, moderator, teacher, assistant principal and principal, Br. John worked to implement his dream of what a Catholic school should be. We thank him for his continuing dedication to and concern for the people who make up Marist High School, but mostly we thank him for showing us the example of a man who dreams dreams and strives to bring them to life. And as he strides through life may he be assured of our prayers, our hopes and our dreams.

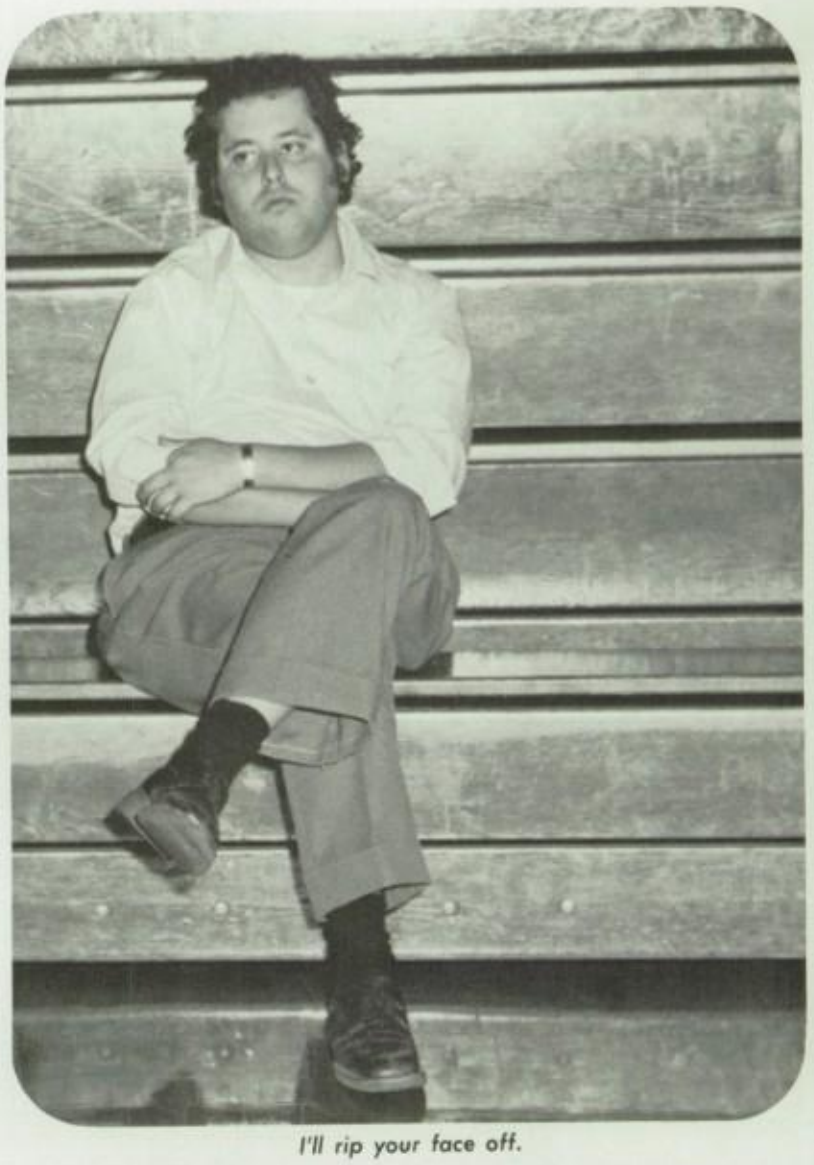
Barbarians, Eh?

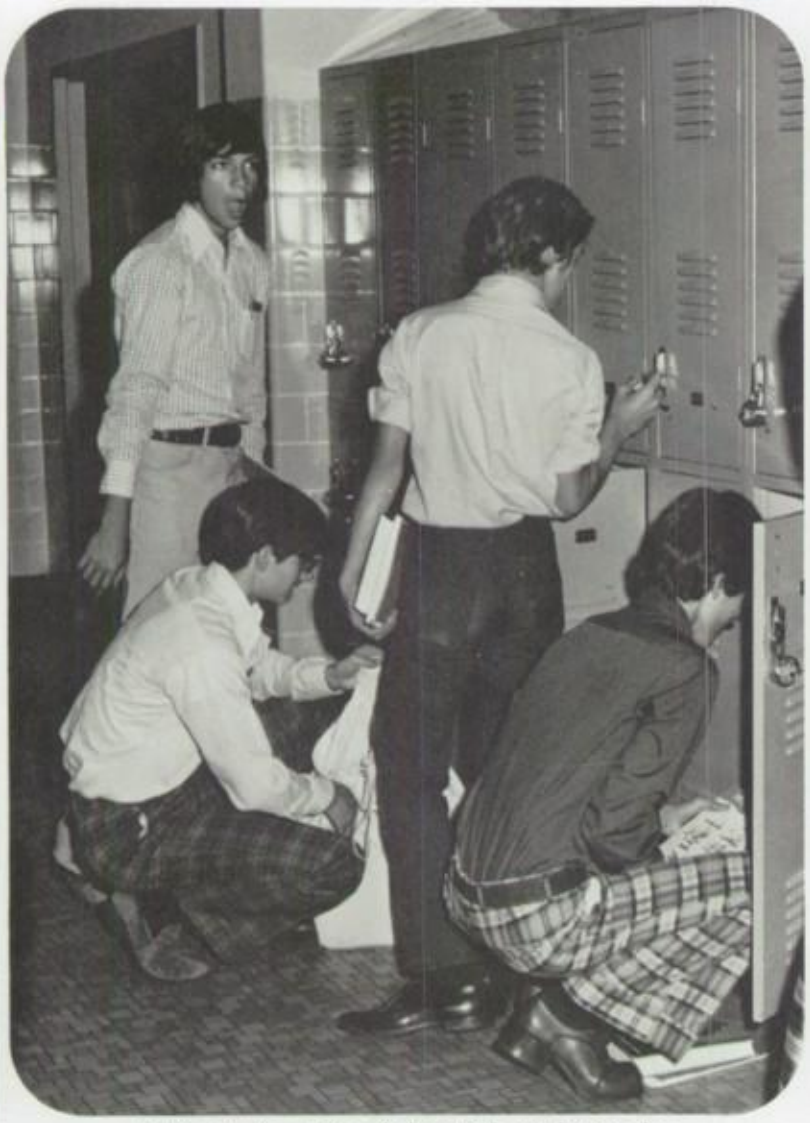


I'll rip your face off.

. . . best floor show I've ever seen.

Out of my way, I've killed for less.

Look at me when I talk to you.



I tell you, I'm getting fed up with crocheting class.

Just try to charge me.

H,h,h, Hi Mister Brazen.

I thought my picture was only in the Post Office!!

I wonder if acid tastes like 7-UP.

MARIST HIGH SCHOOL

19 this 63

The hard work and long hours are over,
and another PLAINSMAN is finished.
The test of success of any yearbook is not in the present, but in the years to come
In the memories that that book brings back.

Over the past nine months,
many people have helped to make my job as co-editor easier.

To them many thanks—

To the students of Marist
without whom this book would not be possible,

To Root Photographers
for their fine work and reliability,

To Ray Gilgenbach and the people at Inter-Collegiate Press
for their assistance,

To the Faculty and Administration
whose help and support were indispensable,

To Br. Gerard Geoffroy and Mr. Frank Kelly
for their dedication and long hours of work,

And finally to the PLAINSMAN Staff, their humor, talents and patience combined to make the PLAINSMAN an enjoyable and learning experience.

I wish my co-editor, Kevin Sullivan, and his staff,
the best of luck in the year ahead.

THANKS,

Russell F Carlson
